

SIGHT OF MORGAN GROWING FEEBLE WORRIES WALL ST.

Tottering Step of Aged Money
Wizard Makes Thousands Ask Same Question.

"The old man is growing a bit feeble." The remark referred to John Pierpont Morgan, of whom it is said that he can command a larger capital than any other man in the world, as the aged financier led the procession of home-coming voyagers down the gangway of the White Star liner Olympic, after the giant ship had been made fast to the pier yesterday morning. It was delivered by a man on the pier who for many years has been meeting the Wall street wizard on his return from abroad. It is significant. It is also true.

The massive, dominant figure trod slowly. The right hand sought the rail for support. Directly following was his son Jack, pressing back against the leaders of the throng of passengers anxious to reach the dock and receive the welcome of relatives and friends. They must be kept from contact with the "big man," whose dominant power has brought Europe's greatest rulers around him in intimate social contact. He must not be ruffled further. The reporters had already done enough of that while pressing him for an interview on the way up from Quarantine.

Even the slight exertion of pressing through the crowd on board to reach the rail within the roped inclosure so that he might be allotted the honor of being the first passenger ashore had set him breathing hard.

At the foot of the gangway waiting to greet their chief were two of his partners, H. P. Davidson and Charles Steele. A hurried handshake and a friendly word disposed of those gentlemen, and then the money king made for the pier elevator, descended to the lower deck and walked rapidly for one of his years to his magnificent steam yacht, the Corsair, tied up at the end of the pier to await his instructions, and on board of which the greatest pleasure of his home-coming awaited him.

IS A DOTTING CUT-UP TO HIS GRANDCHILDREN.

As on all previous occasions since his grandchildren have been old enough to understand, the big black boat had run up Quarantine to give him a sight of the youngsters of J. P. Morgan Jr. and Herbert Satterlee, Mr. Morgan's son-in-law. It is then the man of whom the Rev. Newell Dwight Hillis once said: "Had Morgan lived in another time he would have been a Caesar or a Napoleon." is seen to be human. He is the doting grandfather, and no bucolic progenitor could be more of a cut-up than is this man whom his associates in the financial world find dominating and relentless.

And now he is in his seventy-sixth year. His hair is silver white, and while those who know him best insist that all the old mental vigor is there, the years have halted his physical activities.

The reporters who have been meeting Morgan for years remarked the change yesterday. It was noticed that he did not ascend the broad stairways of the Olympic as he did a couple of years since, or even with the rapidity of a year ago. Passengers who watched his movements while on deck during the passage and who had traveled with him on former occasions noticed that he kept more to his luxurious suite this time, and when on deck found the steamer chair more to his liking.

But age has in nowise ameliorated the fiery temper of this man of millions, as pretty Miss Stanwood, an actress, who was one of the passengers, told the reporters.

"When I asked him to subscribe to the fund for the ship's orchestra," she said, "he nearly took my head off." "I'll attend to that matter myself," he snarled, and I nearly fell in a faint I was so frightened."

The decreasing vigor of Mr. Morgan was, it was stated, the subject of much discussion among the passengers on the trip and gave rise to speculation as to how long the great financier would continue to hold his own as a great financial power.

ALL WALL STREET ASKS THIS QUESTION.

Said one old gentleman who knew the banker's father, Junius Spencer Morgan: "The present head of the house of Morgan inherits longevity, for his father lived to a ripe old age, being seventy-seven when he died. He lived, if I remember correctly, from 1813 to 1890. In less than two years the present Mr. Morgan will have measured pace in years with his parent."

In physical proportions and appearance his son Jack is almost the exact image of his father at the same age. Jack is now forty-five. Does he measure up to the standard of his parent in financial ability? Has he that keen intellect which has enabled Morgan the elder to cope with, and outgeneral, some of the shrewdest business men of two continents?

The younger Morgan, while he inherits much of the brusqueness of his father, has his quick, nervous manner of speech and rapid movements. In social life is a veritable courtier, affable and winning, and a great favorite among his associates.

Tradition will doubtless place him at the head of the great banking house, but many are pointing to young Harry P. Davidson—he is little past forty, blue eyed, suave and diplomatic—as the heir to the financial laurels of the man who dumped millions into the Stock Exchange in the panic of '07. Only a few years ago Mr. Davidson was behind a teller's desk in a small bank at Bridgeport.

RICH GIRL IN ESCAPE.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 25.—A young woman who says she is Julia Woods, twenty-four years old, daughter of Frank Woods, a wealthy Boston contractor, was found yesterday unconscious in a box car.

The girl told the police that she came here from St. Louis with a man who had befriended her and that the last she remembers was walking with him Tuesday. She was fashionably attired and said she had run away from college in the East.

Killed by Fall From Car.

Mrs. Agatha Reed, thirty-five years old, of No. 71 West Fifty-first street, Bayonne, fell from a trolley car at Avenue B and Fifty-first street last night and fractured her skull. She was dead when picked up.

POSAM CURES HOT WEATHER SKIN TROUBLES

All skin troubles prevalent in hot weather—rashes, inflammation, so-called "summer" eczema, itching spots, hives, pimples, etc., demand the use of Posam for their prompt eradication.

Itching stops at once; burning skin is soothed and comforted.

For clearing the complexion, red or inflamed noses, curing sunburn, taking soreness out of mosquito bites, stings, burns, etc., Posam should be used in preference to aught else. Surprising are the results after one application.

In so quickly driving away these troubles Posam gives evidence of the wonderful healing power by which it cures eczema and all virulent skin diseases.

POSAM SOAP, used daily for toilet and bath, will keep the skin in healthy condition and improve its color and texture. It offers the healing medication of Posam in a form particularly beneficial for tender skin.

All druggists sell Posam (price, 50 cents) and Posam Soap (price, 45 cents). For free samples, write to the Emergency Laboratories, 32 West 28th Street, New York City.

Women's Beautiful New Silk Dresses, Regular $5.75 $12.75 to $15 Kind, Latest and Smartest Models, at $5.75

Such silk dress value as this is a sensation indeed. Unless you see the dresses, and note how beautifully and how carefully they are made, you will not realize what an out of the ordinary event this sale is. Pictures and descriptions are really inadequate to do them justice. There are 75 different models to choose from, and every one comes fresh and new from the dress-maker within the last 48 hours.

All the Fashionable Materials Really beautiful, plain and changeable taffeta, so much in vogue; satins, elegant bordered foulards, dotted, striped and figured effects. Of course these are to be had in all the season's very newest shades.

All the New Trimmings Are Represented. The most beautiful concepts are shown in various attractive ways: many are trimmed with fine lace; others with fine embroideries, and finished with crystal buttons, piping, shirring, etc., as well as the peplum, cutaway and accordion plaited effects. Remember, every dress is elegantly made and lined.

These Are the Remainders of Our Recent Large Purchases

They must go, irrespective of former prices, prior to inventory. If you were one of the fortunate that attended these sales the past few weeks you know what wonderful values they were. In holding sales of this character there are always a few left-overs in each lot which must go out before closing of the store Saturday noon. These dresses have been grouped into three lots, regardless of former selling prices, and in many instances at prices that would barely cover cost of material. While in each style there are not all sizes, all sizes will be found in each priced lot.

67 Second Floor. No Mail Orders Filled.

In the making of these dresses only finest gingham, lawns, dimities and percales were used. Workmanship and fit of the best. The styles are the newest, with girly waist lines and set-in sleeves, with trimmings of embroidery, bordered lawns, strappings and pipings of contrasting colors.

Dresses that can be worn at the seashore, mountains, at home or on the porch, or morning wear about the household.
